Sorry this newsletter is so late!! I didn't get a chance on Thursday with the field trip and then I was out sick on Friday. So, here it is...

Field Trip:

We had such a great time! It was a shame that we had to leave early because of the snow. The Omni Theater movie on the Grand canyon was so neat. We got to see some spectacular scenery and also learned about water conservation. There was a water exhibit that fit nicely with our Solids, Liquids and Gases unit in science. Another exhibit they thought was interesting was about the human body. Please ask them all about what they learned.

Family Night:

Family night is this Friday, March 6th from 5:30-8:30. A schedule went home last week. There will be a taco dinner, information about the Tas and becoming a host family, battling bullying, and time to decorate a bowl for the Empty Bowls fundraiser. This should be a fun family event!

Classroom in Mexico:

We finally got to see the videos of the students presenting about the different states in Mexico. Then, we wrote some comments to them on their school's blog. We have not finished, but here is a link so you can see the videos, if you would like, and you can read the comments from the kids. We should be able to get the rest uploaded sometime this week. <http://atid.edu.mx/blog/> Hopefully we will be able to work with this class and actually chat with them live, as we had originally planned to do. I'll keep you posted on any new developments with this.
